Rent control, the governmental regulation of the level of payment and tenure rights for rental housing, occupies a small but unique niche within the broad domain of public regulation of markets. The price of housing cannot be regulated by establishing a single price for a given level of quality, as other commodities such as electricity and sugar have been regulated at various times. Rent regulation requires that a price level be established for each individual housing unit, which in turn implies a level of complexity in structure and oversight that is unequalled. Housing provides a sense of security, defines our financial and emotional well-being, and influences our self-definition. Not surprisingly, attempts to regulate its price arouse intense controversy.

Residential rent control is praised as a guarantor of affordable housing, excoriated as an indefensible distortion of the market, and both admired and feared as an attempt to transform the very meaning of housing access and ownership. This book provides a thorough assessment of the evolution of rent regulation in North American cities. Contributors sketch rent control's origins, legal status, economic impacts, political dynamics, and social meaning. Case studies of rent regulation in specific North American cities from New York and Washington, DC, to Berkeley and Toronto are also presented. This is an important primer for students, advocates, and practitioners of housing policy and provides essential insights on the intersection of government and markets.

In clear language and with numerous examples, this book describes the basic characteristics of American culture: values, style of communication, patterns of thinking, customary behaviours, and underlines how they are different from the ways of other cultures. It then shows how these characteristics are reflected in the many aspects of American life which the foreigner encounters (including politics, social relations, personal hygiene, public behaviour, studying and business). The book also offers concrete suggestions on how to learn more about American culture and how to respond most effectively to the Americans one meets.

The growing housing crisis cries out for solutions that work. As many as 3.5 million Americans experience homelessness each year, half of them women and children. One in four renters spends more than half of their income on rent and utilities (more than 30 percent is considered unaffordable). With record foreclosures and 28 percent of homes "underwater," middle and low-income homeowners are suffering. Many congregations want to address this daunting problem yet feel powerless and uncertain about what to do. The good news is that churches are effectively addressing the housing crisis from Washington State to New York City--where an alliance of sixty churches has built five thousand homes for low-income homeowners, with virtually no government funding or foreclosures. This book not only presents solid theological thinking about housing, but also offers workable solutions to the current crisis: true stories by those who have made housing happen. Each story features a different Christian denomination, geographic area, and model: adaptive reuse, cohousing, cooperative housing, mixed-income, mixed-use, inclusionary zoning, second units, community land trusts, sweat equity, and more. Michael Santos was arrested on August 11, 1987, when he was 23 years old. During an awkward transition between the day of his conviction and the day that he was sentenced, he learned from MasterMinds. While locked inside the Pierce County Jail, facing a sentence of life without the possibility of parole, Michael read the story of Socrates. Socrates was incarcerated and awaiting his execution. He was given an opportunity to escape. Yet rather than accepting that opportunity to live out the rest of his life in exile, Socrates chose to serve his sentence. Socrates gave a reason that inspired Michael. Michael then made a 100% commitment to learn from other MasterMinds. He went on to learn from leaders like Nelson Mandela, Viktor Frankl, Gandhi, Steve Jobs, Bill Gates, and Jack Welch. They taught him that people have faced struggles and challenges from the beginning of time. Those leaders empowered Michael, convincing him that he could overcome challenges associated with living in confinement, even if he would be incarcerated for multiple decades. Anyone who chooses to embrace the MasterMind principles could overcome past bad decisions or current bad circumstances. Through this MasterMind course, readers will learn how MasterMind principles led Michael to strengthen himself through each of the 9,500 days that he lived as a federal prisoner, serving time in prisons of every security level. While incarcerated, Michael earned a bachelor's degree from Mercer University and a master's degree from Hofstra University. He published more than a dozen books from inside of prison boundaries. Earnings from those books allowed him to marry the love of his life and support her from inside prison boundaries. When Michael concluded his 26th year as a federal prisoner, San Francisco State University hired Michael to serve as an adjunct professor. If you want to learn how to triumph over challenges, use this MasterMind course as your guide. Visit MichaelSantos.com to listen to free podcasts that Michael publishes.
